An Ecological Study of Domestic Ganpati Decoration in Pune City.

Area of study : Pune city

Abstract :-

The Ganesh festival is celebrated every year in the city of Pune. Maharashtra. A idol of Ganesh is decorated with flowers, garlands, and other materials. Considering the importance of the environment, a study was conducted on the effects of domestic Ganpati decoration in Pune city on the environment. For this purpose, the information was collected through questionnaires, interviews, observations, and other methods. Due to the information collected, it was found that the environmental risk to the social, cultural and religious factors of human beings the environment has been degraded and the environment is getting polluted. The main purpose of this research is to help the people to understand the effects of this festival by restricting the use of decorative material.

Keywords:- Ganpati Decoration, Environment, pollution

OBJECTIVES OF THE STUDY

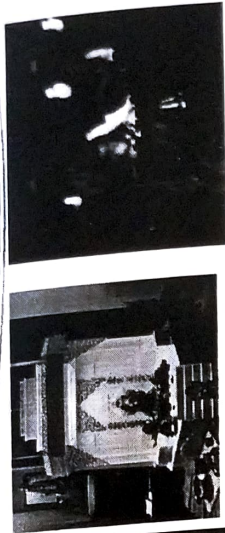

1. To study the domestic Ganpati decoration.
2. To study the social and economic factors of environmental risk to people.
3. To study the environmental impact.
4. A study of decorative material used which is harmful to environment.

DATA COLLECTION & RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

Method of data collection :
 Primary Data & Secondary Data
 Research Methodology - Primary Data - (Questionary, Interview, Observation) & Secondary data were collected and analyzed using analysis of statistical methods
